Thought for the Week – from Caroline

Romans 5:3-4 Not only so, but we also glory in our sufferings, because we know that suffering produces perseverance; perseverance, character; and character, hope.

The Potter and the Clay

A woman was sitting in a pottery shop, watching the artisan mould a lump of wet clay into a beautiful vase. Suddenly, the clay became lumpy and misshapen. Without a word of frustration, the potter gently crushed the clay down, placed it back on the wheel, and began to expertly shape it into an even more beautiful vessel.

Softly, the potter looked at the woman and said, "If I had left it as it was, it would have dried before it could be of any use. It had to be crushed to become truly beautiful." In life, when we feel broken or misshapen, we can trust the Master Potter. He sees the beautiful masterpiece we are becoming and uses our trials to shape us for His purpose.
